

Windward Releases Study Explaining Why Leprechauns Guard Windward Reporting Software

For Immediate Release

Boulder, CO – Windward, the expert in document generation, business intelligence and reporting software, has released the results of a ground-breaking study in advance of the St. Patrick's Day holiday. "Leprechauns: The Real Story Behind The Treasures They Guard" details the top seven treasures leprechauns are guarding in Windward's reporting software.

The study revealed that leprechauns prize items that reflect their own characteristics. Among the gems they are attracted to are Windward's tiny learning curve, miniscule incompatibility problems and speedy implementation.

"We'd seen them frolicking through our hallways and, being curious types ourselves, we asked what they were doing," said Annette Grotz, marketing manager at Windward. "It turns out our reporting software unwittingly acts as a leprechaun trap."

Other treasures uncovered in the study include a built-in debugger that eliminates pesky software bugs, Easy adoption by OEMs who can skip the buy vs. build debate, and high user adoption rates because non-technical users can easily edit and run report templates. Plus, users receive accessible training, support and documentation from a company known for outstanding customer support.
