

Windward Signs New Client "Doggone Office" To Document Generation Contract

For Immediate Release

Boulder, CO – Document generation expert Windward today announced that Doggone Office, a canine workplace training program, has agreed to deploy Windward as their preferred document generation solution throughout thousands of offices worldwide.

Doggone Office provides training and support to canine office workers. The company was founded in 2005 (1957 in dog years) with the mission of increasing overall work efficiency, and it is backed by numerous studies that have shown how dogs at work increase productivity. This mission tailors nicely with Windward's main objective: to make businesses more efficient via flexible and powerful document generation.

"We're very excited to be bringing Doggone Office onboard as we personally know how untutored dogs can wreak havoc," said David Thielen, CTO of Windward. "We implemented untrained canine office workers here at Windward and within 10 minutes of arriving at the office, one of my dogs violated the prime directive. In the main hallway. A giant pile of it."
