

Aspect Security

The development time is where we see a real advantage. It's an order of magnitude faster to develop a report with Windward.

– CEO Jeff Williams

The Challenge

Application security consulting firm Aspect Security ensures that the software that drives business is protected against hackers. They had been using an open-source reporting solution that caused numerous problems:

- Inability to achieve desired report layout due to inflexible formatting tools.
- Difficulty extracting data from the database with multiple and varied queries.
- Developers required to tweak object and sub-object attributes by hand.
- Lack of documentation led to a significant waste of developer time.

The Solution

Aspect switched to Windward Studios because:

- AutoTag gave Aspect necessary control and flexibility in formatting crucial reports that allow Aspect's customers to make informed security decisions.
- The ability to set styles globally rather than changing attributes manually saved developer time and resources.
- Extensive online documentation included forums, online samples and ready access to technical support via phone or email.
- Intuitive wizards allowed users to create a wide variety of reports that can be run on the fly.

The End Result

Along with easily modified reports and custom formats, Aspect achieved:

- Reports created in 1/10th the time compared to Aspect's previous solution.
- Time savings of nearly 10 employee hours per report.
- Complex and professional report output that had been impossible to achieve with the previous solution.
