

U.S. State Government Agency

I can tell anyone that Windward is software you install once and it runs forever without any issues.

—Agency IT Project Manager

The Challenge

A state alcohol licensing agency needed a reporting solution that could meet numerous, varied requirements:

- Reporting that could work with a limited budget and allow the agency to bypass a complicated approval process for big-ticket purchases.
- A solution without client-side software installation or technical support so hundreds of employees could access reports from field and home offices.
- The ability to make sales reports available to the public through its website.

The Solution

The agency decided upon Windward Studios because:

- Windward enabled the agency to skip a multi-step report design process.
- Existing components can be re-used, significantly reducing the time needed to generate reports.
- Departmental output requirements, including HTML custom reports in landscape format, can be generated in a timely and cost-effective manner.

The End Result

Along with end users able to format and generate reports:

- The IT group now spends only 1/10th of the development time formerly spent on reporting, freeing the group to focus on other agency priorities.
- Each department gets the data it needs in the proper output, including PDFs.
- Windward's low price point helped the bureaucracy reduce the decision-making time for purchase approval.
