

Windward Wards off Friday the 13th Woes With Lucky Version 13 Ideas Page

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Boulder, CO – Windward aims to change the traditional misfortunes of Friday the 13th into good fortune for businesses with the new "lucky" Version13 Ideas page. The Version 13 Ideas page is where customers go to request new features, submit feedback on planned implementations, and vote for their favorite requests.

Visitors can browse through categories such as Hot, Top Ideas, and New or make their own suggestions. Items receiving the most votes also get top attention from the Windward development team. Windward is encouraging companies to visit the page in honor of September 13, 2013.

"The Version 13 page is the antidote for the bad luck traditionally associated with Friday the 13th," said Windward marketing manager Annette Grotz. "Instead of being at the mercy something outside their control – after all, no individual can change the calendar – companies have a public and measurable impact on the direction of our offerings."

Those offerings include reporting, document generation and business intelligence software solutions for enterprises, OEMs and resellers in a variety of industries throughout the world. One of the most popular suggestions submitted by such companies is the request for support of static and dynamic footnotes, which is in production and scheduled to be shipped in version 13.

"We encourage everyone to visit the page and make a request, no matter how unique to your own business situation it may seem," Grotz added. "As Dirty Harry says, 'sometimes you've gotta ask yourself a question: Do I feel lucky?'"
